EGAL OB MOBILLEFY FESTNETZTELEFONY. Internetanschluss ODER TV â€ "M-Budget Mobile Bieget Ihnen qualitative Hochwertige TelekommunikationsLÄsungen Auf dem Swisscom Netz Zu Attraktive Preisen An. GLÄNE UNTERSTÄL/4tzen Wir Sie Begegnen M-Budget Mobile has radically simplified its Roaming Schedule. It now uses Just One Unified Country List Instead of separate hours for phone calls, SMS Messaging, mobile plans and Prepaid Mobile. What changes is M-Budget Mobile Do roaming data? From 1 July 2021, M-Budget Mobile will offer Diverso Roaming Bundle data for each region. The new bundle expires only after 12 months, in line with the updated Swiss Telecom regulations. Previously, M-Mobile Bundle expired after 30 days. M-Budget Mobile Users will be able to Buaming in most European countries (Goal Excluding some, such as Albania and Kosovo): 500 Megabytes for 9.90 francs (the same as the previous Offer). 1 Gigabyte for 15.90 francs (new bundle). 3 gigabytes for 42.90 francs (new bundle). M-Budget no longer offers its 100 Megabyte Bundle for 3.90This is a loss for customers who only need small amounts of data in roaming. These roaming data packages will be available for the World 1 region which includes some European countries (such as Albania and Kosovo), Australia, Canada, Thailand, Turkey, the United States and other countries: 500 megabytes to 15.90 francs (1 franc more expensive than the previous offer), 1 gigabytes to 21.90 francs (new package), 3 gigabytes to 54.90 francs (new package). Even the smallest package available to this region is disappearing. Until now, M-Budget Mobile has offered a package of 100 megabytes for 5.90 francs. These packages will be available for roaming data in the World 2 region, which includes countries such as Costa Rica, Tunisia and Vietnam: 100 megabytes for 9.90 francs (previously 12.90 francs); 500 megabytes for 39.90 francs (new package); 1 gigabyte for 64.90 francs (new package). These offers will be available for roaming data in countries like Angola and Madagascar (region of the rest of the world): 100 megabytes for 19.90 francs (previously 39.90 francs). What changes is M-Budget Mobile making for roaming calls? From 1 July 2021, M-Budget Mobile will offer its customers roaming options Voice Travel with 60 minutes of call. Options can be used for roaming calls in any country corresponding to their region. These options expire after a year. Options costs: Europe (mainly EU countries) for CHF 16.90. World 1 (Albania, Australia, Kosovo, United States, and others) for 32.90 francs. World 2 (Costa Rica, Tunisia, Vietnam, and others) for CHF 54.90. Rest of the World (countries like Cuba, Malawi and others) for CHF 64.90. Once the call minutes are exhausted, customers can continue to call at standard roaming rates or buy another package. In terms of price, M-Budget offers are not particularly convenient. Customers pay up to 10% more than Swisscom will charge Diverso roaming calls packages from 1 July 2021. M-Budget Mobile is a service provided by Swisscom in collaboration with Migros. The previous M-Budget Voice Travel option will no longer be offered. This option costs 15 francs and includes 15 minutes of call, with a reduced rate of only 25 cents per minute (for roaming in Europe) once used the allowance. What changes does M-Budget Mobile make to SMS roaming options? M-Budget now offers the possibility to send SMS during roaming. Unlike roaming data and calls, the new SMS package does not have a region. It's all over the world. A package with 100 SMS costs 9.90 francs and is valid for one year. What changes does M-Budget Mobile make to standard rates? Standard rates apply when customers use roaming without buying an option or an additional package. Standard rates are very expensive, roaming at these rates normally not worth it. From July the unified roaming rates will apply to all the calls within a region such rates rates on incoming calls, outgoing calls within the country where roaming is being made and calls from other countries to Switzerland. Until today the rates were different depending on the type of call and if you were using an M-Budget or prepaid cell phone plan. Â These standard rates now apply to roaming calls: Europe (especially EU countries) costs 60 cents per minute (first between 27 and 85 cents). World 1 (countries such as Albania, Australia, Kosovo, United States) costs 1.80 francs per minute (previously 0.80 to 4.30 francs). World 2 (Costa Rica, Tunisia, Vietnam, among others) costs 3 francs per minute (previously between 1.60 and 4.30 francs per minute). The rest of the world (Cuba, Malawi and others) costs 4.20 francs per minute (previously between 1.60 and 4.30 francs). Rate variations make the response to calls during roaming enormously more expensive than the past. This is true even if you take into account the passage from the previous billing per minute to more favorable billing per second. But depending on how you use your prepaid phone and plan or cell phone, standard fare calls can also become less expensive after change. Prepaid customers, in particular, will pay a little less in the future. When is it worth receiving a roaming package? M-Budget customers who make more than 28 minutes of roaming in Europe each year can save money thanks to the Voice Travel option. For roaming in other regions, packages are already cheaper than standard rates from 15 to 20 minutes of call per year. What are the advantages of M-Budget for customers who change roaming? The most important change is the extension of the expiration period from 30 days to a year. M-Budget had to make this change to comply with updates of Swiss telecommunications laws which will enter into force on 1 July 2021. "The great advantage for customers is that they can use the same data package several times throughout the year. For example, a M-Budget customer could get only one package and use it for summer holidays, a long weekend in autumn, spring holidays and also for shopping throughout the year," explains Ralf Beyeler, moneyland.ch telecommunications expert. Thanks to the simplified regions and tariff times, customers will also have a better overview of roaming costs. What are the disadvantages of M-Budget roaming changes? The main disadvantage for customers who do not often use roaming is that M-Budget will no longer offer smaller roaming packages. If you use only small amounts of roaming data, you will pay more in the future. M-Budget customers who make numerous roaming calls often pay more even after price changes. For example, answering a two-minute call on a trip to Spain costcents, but now it costs 1.20 francs. That's a 76% increase in prices. Telecommunications expert Ralf Beyeler concludes: "Simplified pricing is more understandable for customers, as there is only one tariff per country. The downside is that on user habits, roaming can be much more expensive than before change," says Beyeler. "It is also unpleasant that M-Budget will continue to charge expensive standard roaming rates to customers who forget to buy roaming packages of calls. M-Budget stopped using standard data roaming rates long ago." Customers can only use mobile data outside Switzerland if they have a data roaming package, so there is no way that additional charges can be charged at standard prices.
