bosch w1359 lpg water heater manual

Misplaced or worn out batteries. Check position replace necessary. Slow and difficult ignition of pilot Worn out batteries. Replace burner. Burner extinguishes while in Flue gas safety device activated. Ventilate the room and reignite the operation. Its a Bosch with automated ignition when the hot water tap is turned on. Ive replaced the batteries in case they were flat, let it run for ages so the air locks can pass, but I still dont hear the clicking of the ignition Am I doing something wrong. Its a brand new boiler installed by the chap who did our gas safety certificate. There is a control lever which needs to be in over to the left and a switch which needs to be on. Any thoughts or ideas as to what the problem could be Thanks Until recently we even had to have different qualifications to work on each! I will have a look this weekend when we go down to the boat. Its new, less than a year old so I would hope its covered under guarantee. Now to try and dig out the paperwork. Thanks for replying Its a Bosch W1359 LPG Water Heater purchased 21st July 2014 so hopefully still under warranty Id check and clean the battery contacts. Think torches. Seems to be obsolete already! Just rang Bosch Worcester tech helpline. They said it could be the micro switch that needs adjusting. Not raising itself high enough to create the spark for ignition. At least its still under warranty albeit only for another 2 months. But thanks for your support and suggestions Just rang Bosch Worcester tech helpline.. You can adjust your cookie settings, otherwise well assume youre okay to continue. In a caravan Started up two times then the ignition will not spark up. Gas is there. Not sure if it is the micro switch. Give advise please It should be 1.3 volts DC minimum if it is not means the electronic control box is defective. Let me know the status.Kevin Thermo couplers are inexpensive and easy to change out. It sounds like that is the problem. This picture is what I received in the mail. Comes with directions of installment. Login to post The igniter does not stop sparking once the flame is lit. What will cause this Lpg is propaneI am having a heck of a time even locating the LPG valve. You will also need to change the Burner Nozzle Pilot injector and the Gas regulator in order for the unit to function properly. You might try running a ad on CraigsList. If you cannot find one for free, you may end up spending more money then the unit is worth. You could also put the word out with local plumbing companies that replace these heaters to look out for a used one. Some one out there has to have one those laying around.The problem may actually be the flow sensor.often they fail to sense the flow and then do not ignite. Is it actually trying to ignite the flame Is the flow switch turning the heater on. If it is trying to ignite, do you have spark. Does the pilot light at all. Is the flame sensor clean. Is power going back to the control. Is the control failing to provide power to the gas valves. All these things need to be gone through and checked off.this will get you started towards finding the trouble. heatman101After that valve the piping is the same as for any gas boiler.Where the pipe goes through the wall floor of similar make sure the pipe has a sheath to protect it from gouges and or wet The regs Not sure about the USA but here in UK we have comply.I spent about 3 years of using a workaround with a fan blowing air to get ignition until it finally failed. <http://autotuning-nv.ru/userfiles/complete-reloading-manual.xml>

I had a tech look over the system to point me in the right direction. Looks like a small coil spring sticking out of the pilot orifice that doesn't show in the owner's manual. Could this be the problem I replaced the hydro but still nothing. What's next? Thanks. Answer questions, earn points and help others. Installation should be pretty straightforward and the manuals not that in depth. There are however some sections on adjusting the gas and the like that you might want to read over. If voltage is not Water Heating for further instruction. Q. Cycling hot water tap on and off multiple times may be necessary. If improper venting may cause premature failure. Sparking should be followed by a steady blue. Check wire connections on back side. Long vent lengths, venting with more. Low gas pressure may cause the fan to change its speed to meet desired temperature. Call Bosch Water Heating for further instructions. Thermo couplers are inexpensive and easy to change out. EC comes from gas supply problems and CO2 levels not being adjusted. The LP regulator needs to be turned up to about 13 inches of water column and with all the gas appliances on, measure no less than 11 inches of water column. The CO2 levels must be measured by a qualified gas technician with a calibrated within 6 months CO2 analyzer. Login to post. Lpg is propane. Manual is a good place to start since it shows maintenance protocol. There are many reasons that cause tankless to cycle as described. Both internal and external. Water filter is possible, but you might get error code unless sensor is bad. And there can be more than one problem at same time. Same symptoms on one heater can have different cause and solution than another unit. Water filters are supposed to be cleaned monthly.

Tankless should be serviced yearly. Among the many reasons is crossover in your plumbing, where a check valve failure or faulty single-handled faucet is allowing cold water to enter hot water line, so the water flow at tankless does not reach water flow necessary to activate tankless unit. It is cheap and quick to test and fix. But this is one possible cause, and can affect tankless and tank-type water heaters. Upvote the help. And take advantage of Fixya expert assistance live. For a price, expert works with you while you work on water heater or any do-it-yourself project. Fixya is always less expensive than a service call. I am having a heck of a time even locating the LPG valve. You will also need to change the Burner Nozzle Pilot injector and the Gas regulator in order for the unit to function properly. All these things need to be gone through and checked off. This will get you started towards finding the trouble. heatman101. Is there a maintenance problem I need to do. Where are instructions how. It is around .75 gallons a minute. There are three things you can do to help the flow. 1. Turning the temperature down will help increase the flow. 2. Installing higher flow aerators on your faucets. 3. Clean the Bosch tankless water heater. You are not alone in having this issue. The most common problems are low flow faucet aerators and low flow shower heads. We have been having to reset it more and more. And now it shows 130 on it, but the water comes out cold. You can locate one at boschhotwater.com or Protankless.com. It sounds like a very poor installation with poor combustion air and poor gas piping. OR if the flow through the hot tap has become reduced over the years there could be furring in the heat exchanger. I cleaned the inlet line. Let it sit and add more as needed. Takes patience. Once you get some flow, fill the tubing with a descaling solution hardware store and let it sit. Pool acid works but must be thoroughly flushed out.

must be intact so that the item is in an unused and resaleable condition. Seals and wrapping must be unbroken. Postage costs are covered by the customer; the delivery charge of your order will be deducted from your refund. If you want to cancel, let us know ASAP by phone. In the event you place the order and immediately decide to cancel, you must let us know the fastest way possible to avoid incurring costs. Sending an email, which can take longer to be picked up, will often mean the order has already gone and shipping costs will be incurred.

How to return an item by post: Pack the goods carefully so they will not be damaged in transit. Enclose a brief explanatory note and your contact details. Print out our address label. Fill in the RMA number and attach it to your parcel and take it to your local post office. Returned items should be received into our warehouse within 14 days unless otherwise agreed. We can collect in some circumstances. We can arrange collection of the goods in some cases and pass this cost onto you; collection charges depend on the item size, value and your location; minimum collection costs start at around 10. We would advise you of the cost before we proceed with a collection. Failed collections are still chargeable.

How to return large or heavy items: Please send us a message for guidance if the item you wish to return weighs over 5kg. There may be additional charges to cover the cost of collecting large or heavy items. If we have to instruct our courier to collect, the collection charges may be between 13.60 (small parcel) and 80.00 (if palletised). Do I have to pay postage if I return an order?

If you've changed your mind about an item, you will need to pay for the cost of returning it. The cost of dispatch postage is non-refundable. Please see above for further guidance. If you have received the wrong item or there is a fault with it, we will cover the cost for you. If this is the case, please contact us.

Warranty: Most items are covered by a manufacturer's warranty whose terms have to be adhered to.

Return of faulty items: Faulty items should be advised by telephone and an initial checklist with one of our Technical Team completed during the call to try to resolve the issue. The tech consultant can agree to check out the fault and arrange for collection of the item. A replacement item or refund will be issued if it is found to be faulty. If an item is returned as faulty and after testing no problem can be found with it, the costs of collection plus an administration fee of 10.00 will be payable by the customer. We reserve the right to deduct these costs from any refund due.

Missing Parts: Non-critical. Very rarely goods may arrive missing a part; we reserve the right to post the missing part within a reasonable time limit and that such a missing part does not constitute an excuse for the customer to demand a complete replacement of the goods dispatched or for the goods to be collected and refunded. Your statutory rights are not affected.
